OBJECTION OF ARTHUR I. SEGEL TO TRUSTEE'S DETERMINATION OF CLAIMS

Arthur I. Segel (the "Claimant"), by and through his undersigned counsel, hereby submits this written opposition and objection (this "Objection") to the determination by Irving Picard, as trustee (the "Trustee"), denying the Claimant's customer claim dated May 12, 2009 and filed with the Trustee (the "Customer Claim")<sup>1</sup> by a notice dated December 8, 2008 (the "Determination Notice"), and respectfully represents and sets forth as follows:

<sup>1</sup> As set forth in the Determination Notice, the Trustee designated the Customer Claim as Claim No. 008914.

BACKGROUND

1. As set forth more fully in the Customer Claim attached hereto as Exhibit A, the Claimant deposited cash in the amount of $1,000,000 to be invested in MW Special Situations Fund, L.P. (“MW Fund”). MW Fund then deposited a portion of the Claimant’s investment in Rye Select Broad Market Fund, L.P. (formerly known as American Masters Broad Market Fund, L.P.) (“Rye”). Rye, in turn, deposited the entirety of its cash, including a portion attributable to claimant, with Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities LLC (“BLMIS”) to purchase various securities.

2. The amount of cash that MW Fund invested in Rye varied from year to year. As of December 30, 2008, the applicable year, the Rye investment comprised 13.9% of the MW Fund’s portfolio. Based on this percentage, and the value of the Claimant’s interest in the MW Fund as of September 30, 2008, the Claimant estimated that the amount of his cash deposited with BLMIS was $218,400.

3. On December 11, 2008, the above-captioned liquidation proceeding was commenced against BLMIS pursuant to the Securities Investor Protection Act of 1970 (“SIPA”). On December 15, 2008, jurisdiction of this matter was transferred to the United States Bankruptcy Court for the Southern District of New York and Irving Picard was appointed as Trustee under SIPA. Pursuant to SIPA, the Trustee was directed to oversee the liquidation of the assets of BLMIS and to process all claims against BLMIS in accordance with SIPA.

4. On December 23, 2008, the Court entered an order (the “Procedures Order”) establishing various procedures for the filing and determination of customer claims. Docket No.

12. If the Trustee denied a claim, the Procedures Order directed the Trustee to “notify such claimant by mail of his determination that the claim is disallowed, in whole or in part, and the reason therefore . . . .” Id. at 6.

5. Prior to the claims bar date, the Claimant timely filed the Customer Claim pursuant to the Procedures Order. The Customer Claim was denied by letter dated December 8, 2009. In the Determination Notice, the Trustee formally notified the Claimant that his claim had been disallowed, summarily stating:

Based on a review of available books and records of BLMIS by the Trustee’s staff, you did not have an account with BLMIS. Because you did not have an account, you are not a customer of BLMIS under SIPA, as that term is defined at 15 U.S.C. § 78fff(2). Accordingly, your Claim for securities and/or a credit balance is DENIED.”

ARGUMENT

I. THE CLAIMANT IS A “CUSTOMER” UNDER THE PLAIN LANGUAGE OF SIPA.

6. Contrary to the position of the Trustee, the Claimant is a “customer” of BLMIS under the plain meaning of SIPA. The Trustee’s assertion that the Claimant must have had a specifically identifiable account recorded among BLMIS’s “available books and records” has no statutory basis in SIPA and creates an illogical distinction between investors who had accounts directly with Madoff and investors who invested by means of intermediaries. Each investor who invested in Madoff, whether directly or indirectly, constitutes a “customer” under the plain reading of SIPA. Accordingly, the Claimant is entitled to receive the entirety of his claim through the insurance protections provided by SIPA. 15 U.S.C. § 78fff-3(a).

7. The statutory definition of customer is set forth in SIPA as:

The term “customer” of a debtor means any person (including any person with whom the debtor deals as a principal or agent) who has a claim on account of securities received, acquired, or held by the debtor in the ordinary course of its business as a broker or dealer from or for the securities accounts of such persons for safekeeping, with a view to sale, to cover consummated sales, pursuant to purchases, as collateral security, or for purposes of effecting transfer. The term “customer” includes any person who has a claim against the debtor arising out of sales or conversions of such securities, and any person who has deposited cash with the debtor for purposes of purchasing such securities, but does not include

(a) any person to the extent that the claim of such person arises out of transactions with a foreign subsidiary of a member of SIPC; or

(b) any person to the extent that such a person has a claim for cash or securities which by contract, agreement, or understanding, or operation of law, is part of the capital of the debtor, or is subordinated to the claims of any or all creditors of the debtor, notwithstanding that some ground exists for declaring such contract, agreement, or understanding void or voidable in a suit between the claimant and the debtor.

15 U.S.C. § 78lll(2) (emphasis added).

8. The broad statutory definition of customer does not require the claimant to have an account directly with the broker or dealer. Instead, SIPA only requires that the claimant’s claim be “on account of securities,” “arise out of” sales or conversions of securities, or result from depositing cash with the debtor for the purpose of purchasing securities. The statute in no way mandates that the claimant directly deal with, or deposit cash directly with, the debtor, nor does the statute require (as the Trustee asserts) that the broker or dealer establish an “account” for the claimant. See In re Primeline Sec. Corp., 295 F.3d 1100, 1107 (10th Cir. 2002) (“Whether a claimant deposited funds ‘with the debtor’ does not depend simply on to whom claimants made their checks payable. The relevant inquiry is whether the brokerage firm actually received, acquired or possessed Claimants’ property.”) (citing In re Old Naples, 223 F.3d 1296 (11th Cir. 2000)); S.E.C. v. Ambassador Church Fin. Dev. Group, Inc. 679 F.2d 608, 614 (6th Cir. 1982) (“[T]he mere act of entrusting . . . cash to the debtor for the purpose of effecting securities transactions . . . triggers customer status . . .”).

9. The statute also provides that “any person who has a claim against the debtor arising out of sales or conversions” of securities is entitled to customer status. 15 U.S.C. § 78lll(2). This broad language does not limit the protected claimants to those who directly dealt with the debtor, but affords protection to the broadest extent possible by using the phrase “arising out of sales or conversions.” See, e.g., In re Stratton Oakmont, Inc., 2003 WL 22698876, at *3 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 14, 2003) (holding that the debtor’s conversion of the claimant’s property brings the claimant within the SIPA definition of “customer”). It cannot be disputed that BLMIS converted the Claimant’s property, which was funneled to BLMIS through MW Fund and Rye. Accordingly, the Claimant is entitled to protection as a customer under SIPA.

II. SIPA EXPRESSLY AFFORDS PROTECTION TO INDIRECT INVESTORS.

10. SIPA expressly contemplates indirect investors as customers protected by the statute. Specifically, section 78fff-3(a)(5) provides that:

no advance shall be made by SIPC to the trustee to pay or otherwise satisfy any net equity claim of any customer who is a broker or dealer or bank, other than to the extent that it shall be established . . . that the net equity claim of such broker or dealer or bank against the debtor arose out of transactions for customers of such broker or dealer or bank (which customers are not themselves a broker or dealer or bank or a person described in paragraph (4)), in which event each such customer of such broker or dealer or bank shall be deemed a separate customer of the debtor.

15 U.S.C. § 78fff-3(a)(5) (emphasis added). Under this provision, Congress provided that brokers, dealers, and banks are not themselves entitled to protection under SIPA. Recognizing the existence of indirect customers, Congress removed the possibility that indirect customers would be left unprotected by SIPA by means of the express exclusion of broker, dealers, and banks. See In re First State Sec. Corp., 34 B.R. 492, 495-96 (Bankr. S.D. Fla. 1980) (“There is nothing in SIPA which suggests that coverage should be denied merely because the debtor used the facilities of another innocent broker in converting its customer's property."). Implicit in this provision is that indirect investors are presumed to be customers under SIPA.

III. TO THE EXTENT THE STATUTE IS AMBIGUOUS, SIPA SHOULD BE BROADLY CONSTRUED TO PROTECT THE CLAIMANT.

11. Furthermore, to the extent that the definition of "customer" may be considered ambiguous (which it is not), the statute should be broadly construed to protect the Claimant. Id. at 496 ("SIPA is remedial legislation. As such it should be construed liberally to effect its purpose.") (citing Tcherepnin v. Knight, 389 U.S. 332, 336 (1967)).

JOINDER

Numerous objections have been filed on the same issue set forth above. To the extent applicable, the Claimant adopts by reference the arguments of other claimants as if set forth in full herein.

NOTICE

Notice of this objection has been provided to Irving H. Picard, trustee for the liquidation of the business of Bernard L. Madoff Investment Securities, LLC.

NO PRIOR RELIEF

The relief requested by Claimant in this Objection has not been sought previously in this or any other court.

WHEREFORE, the Claimant respectfully requests that this Court deem the Customer Claim filed by the Claimant allowed in full and grant such further relief as is just and proper.
